

MAXIMUM CITY: MUMBAI LOST AND FOUND

Priyanka, Shiaddsh e Nikita three teenagers in India.

Three olds , three teenagers I met along Chowpatti beach.

It's my little love story, three friends's tale walking together to school.

Teenager's hope, naïve friendship, smiles, carefree, a big city, the Marine Drive burning sun, they walk all together barefoot to reach Victoria Station.

Priyanka, Shiaddsh e Nikita holding hands all the time, rarely coming off, joined by a strong bond that I joined too for a moment.

I feel received and welcomed as usual happens here in Mumbai, a millions habitants city where people greet me on the road although they don't know me.

I wonder if it's my huge camera or my skin otherwise colored that interest them and make me not feeling alone. That's India too.

Emanuela Vincenti

Emanuela Vincenti

She was born in 1971 February 26th. She became passionately fond of photography thanks to her father and bought her first camera for her first travel. She's a selfmade photographer starting with film and kept on working with digital photography, fond of portrait and travel photography.

In 2011 she's finished a Master in photo, video and theatre as artistic mediator in helping relationship and that allowed her to look forand find something new inside herself, not going too far.